Washington D.C. Branch of Limbach Company LLC Relocates to New Facility

Washington D.C. (February 22, 2010) – The Washington D.C. Branch of Pittsburgh-based Limbach Company LLC is pleased to announce the relocation of its operation to 13261 Mid Atlantic Boulevard, Laurel, MD 20708 - part of the newly developed business park in Prince George's County, The Brick Yard. Limbach was previously located in Lanham, Maryland at 10110 Senate Drive.

Stemming from Limbach's ongoing success and development, an expanded space was required to accommodate the addition of new employees and need for expanded on-site fabrication. Limbach's selection of the Brick Yard, according to Branch Manager, Craig Sasser, was driven by, "the functionality of the space, the quality look and feel of the building and park, and the location's accessibility to our expanding customer base."

Mirroring Limbach's ongoing devotion to sustainable solutions and green initiatives, The Brick Yard is among the largest LEED registered developments in the region. The 110-acre, master-planned mixed-use development was designed and constructed around principals of efficient energy use and sustainable community development.

In full support of the relocation, the State of Maryland's Governor Martin O'Malley affirmed that, Limbach's, "decision to expand and create new jobs in Maryland speaks to the quality of our workforce and the supportive business climate that the State and our partners in Prince George's County offer businesses looking to locate or expand. Maryland's economy," O'Malley furthered, "remains strong and is outperforming the nation and many neighboring states because world-class companies like Limbach continue to grow and invest here."
